LINOLEUM CUT BY PHIL NESBITT

"We'll Bulge Out The City Council Walls," Say Murphy Lot Petitioners

Is the City of Carmel in a position legally to force M. J. Murphy Co. to move its collection of trucks, derrick cranes, rock crushers, road graders, etc., etc., etc., off its equipment lot on Ninth and Monte Verde streets in compliance with the urgent request of 39 property owners in the immediate neighborhood?

City Attorney William Hudson, who was asked by the city council to "look it up and report back to the council at the next regular meeting," says: "It would be damn poor taste for me to make my opinion on this question public before I had reported back to the council, but you can say that: (1) I will give a report on the legal aspect of the affair at the council meeting Wednesday night; (2) I will recommend that a committee of the petitioners, several members of the city council, and myself meet with M. J. Murphy representatives to see if we can come to an understanding that will be satisfactory to all concerned."

Meanwhile, some 30 people have called Naomi Fletcher and Amy Campbell, asking to have their names added to the new petition the Misses Fletcher and Campbell will circulate this weekend to accommodate the people who didn't get their names on the original petitions—the petitions which inspired the city council to ask Attorney Hudson to "look into it."

"And Peter Mawdsley had better make arrangements for bulging out the city hall walls. I think quite a few of us are coming to the council meeting Wednesday night to see what William Hudson has found out," Miss Fletcher says.

Point of controversy is the fact that the Murphy equipment lot is in a residential zone. The Murphys have a permit to use the lot for commercial purposes, but whether that use extends to the increasing storage of bigger, better, noisier and smellier machinery, the neighbors are inclined to question.

Notable development in the campaign this week has been what Miss Fletcher describes as "The Parade of Spectators." "People drive by in their cars and stop and look at the lot. They walk by in the evening and look it over, and you should hear some of the comments. It's been going on steadily all week."

Mike Murphy, who is here from Oregon, where he has been making his home for the past four years, is remaining longer than was expected. "He's waiting and watching developments," is the opinion of some of the neighbors. What he'll do is a matter of speculation. General concensus of opinion is that he's unpredictable, he's a fighter from way back, but "you can't help liking him, darn him, he has that Irish charm."

Another faction believes that "Mike" will remain aloof from the controversy, delegating his son, Frank, to conduct negotiations.

Supervisors Plan 30 Cent Increase In County Taxes

Monterey County taxes are up 30 cents. A rate of $1.62½ per hundred dollars was announced this week as the tentative figure set by the Board of Supervisors Friday. Last year's figure was $1.32½.

Public hearings preceding final adoption of the new tax rate will be held in Salinas during August, following submission of preliminary budgets, according to the Board. The supervisors must adopt a 1949 budget and set a rate on or before September 1.

Cost of government in the county has risen to a point where there is no alternative to the increase, in spite of a week of sessions in which budget costs were slashed to a minimum, officials said. Major victim of the paring was a proposed isolation ward at the County Hospital, together with other discarded projects totalling nearly $500,000.

State Money To Finance Historic Pageant In Monterey

Plans for California's Constitutional Convention Centennial, to be held in Monterey September, 1949, were under way this week following a meeting of Peninsula officials at Colton Hall Wednesday. Joseph Knowland, chairman of the state's Centennial Commission, spoke on general aims of the event before an audience including Mayors Fred Godwin and Hugh Dormody, Senator Fred Weybret, General Gens A. Doe, and Captain Frank Watkins of the U. S. Naval School.

Featured event of the celebration of the California Constitution's 100th birthday will be an historical pageant presented at the Monterey Ball Park. To be financed by state funds, the production will be as far as possible in the hands of local talent, with the exception of the leads, which will be from professional ranks, officials announced.

Funds appropriated through the Centennial Commission will also provide for the restoration of Colton Hall, scene of the Constitutional Convention of September, 1849, to its original state at the time of the signing of the historic document.

"This is to be no tin-horn affair, but an event of true historical significance," authorities said.

"Vices Are Expensive," Woman Judge Says Economic Insecurity Leads To "Indulgences," Causes Divorce

BY JOHN UPTON

Economic insecurity, not personality conflicts, is the greatest factor in today's divorces, says Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Georgia P. Bullock, veteran woman jurist and presiding judge of the Children's Court of Reconciliation. In Carmel last week for the Bach Festival, annual high point of her vacation here, Judge Bullock was so stimulated by the music she had heard it was difficult to steer her mind into legal channels.

"Contrary to popular opinion, personal relationships in themselves are not the principal causes of divorce. Changes in our national life wrought by war and its aftermath have made great inroads on the fundamental social unit—the home. Insufferable housing conditions and general family insecurity have in many cases engendered indulgences that have weakened the emotional and social bonds of marriage. Vices are always expensive." Since her appointment as the first woman judge of the California Superior Court in 1931, Mrs. Bullock has specialized in divorce cases where children are involved.

"Where parents are contemplating divorce, the interests of the children should have the first consideration," the judge said. "They are the primary victims of most litigation, and are resentful of and hurt by the conflict more than most couples realize."

The Children's Court of Reconciliation, an institution in jurisprudence dating from 1826, when the first court was set up in Paris, was revived a few years ago by the late Judge Ben B. Lindsey. With Margaret Harpstrite, director of conciliation, Judge Bullock was assigned to the department in 1946, and in her two and one-half years of office has achieved results beyond her expectations.

"During the court's first year, with 699 cases filed, involving 842 children, we were instrumental in effecting 257 satisfactory reconciliations between warring parents. Since March, 1946, the court has handled a total of 1,383 cases,

CLASSY LOS GATOS NINE AT SUNSET SATURDAY NIGHT

Boasting the top softball pitcher in San Jose, the Bennie's Meats nine from Los Gatos will visit Sunset Field tomorrow night to tangle with the Pine Cone aggregation. The Butcher Boys dug into the ranks of the Hollister Cowboys, runners-up in the National Softball Congress, for eight of their players and they are rightfully rated as the top softball team in Northern California. They have played 24 games this season and have been on the loser's end twice. Bud Bosque, San Jose police officer, is their top hurler and he is considered on a par with Mario Victor, West Coast Industries hurler. Carmel's reliable Ky Miyamoto will toe the slab for the locals with Don Edwards ready to share the pitching load if another extra inning tussle ensues. Most of the Pine Cone players have returned from vacation trips and they should be at full strength for the first time in several weeks. Saturday night's game will get underway at 8:30 and will be a nine inning affair.

PINE CONE DUMPS HOLLISTER, LOSES TO TAVERN

Ky Miyamoto's pitching and Ralph Mentz' hitting were the deciding factors in last Friday's softball clash between the Hollister All-Stars and the Carmel Pine Cone nines. Ky limited the slugging All-Stars to five hits and fanned 12, while Ralph helped himself to a brace of hits in 3 chances. With the score knotted, 2-2 in the last inning, Mentz teed off on one of 240 pound Paul Vasquez's best pitches for a line double. Gordy Miyamoto, who also picked up 2 for 3, laid down a perfect bunt which allowed Ralph to score from second with the winning run. The All-Stars picked up their two runs in the first inning, but Ky held them helpless for the rest of the contest.

Saturday night's contest with Sunnyvale was a tussle between the Pine Cone softball players and 10 umpires from Sunnyvale. Evidently trying to live up to their reputation as a counterpart of the Brooklyn Dodgers, the visiting Tavern boys exercised their vocal cords on every decision handed down by the umpires or the Carmel fans. That they could also play ball a little is upheld by the fact that they won the game after 11 innings of bitterly contested softball. The visitors went out winging in the first inning and put two runs on the scoreboard, but their lead was short lived as the Pine Cone tacked up six tallies before they were retired in their half of the first. While the locals rested on their half dozen runs, the Sunnyvale lawyers kept pecking away at Don Edwards until they had tied the score in the sixth inning. Neither team could dent the platter until the visitors pushed a man around in the top half of the eleventh. Carmel failed to score in their turn at the plate and the happy Tavern boys went home on the long end of a 6-5 score.

PINE CONE TOPS WILDER & JONES IN CITY SERIES

Cliff Cook's gang of veteran softballers ganged up on the Wilder & Jones Plumbers in the first inning of Tuesday's series-opening game, and before the side could be retired the newsies had tacked a big 5 on the scoreboard. The opening tilt was played before the largest crowd to witness a softball contest at Sunset this season. Approximately a thousand fans jammed the bleachers, fences, and streets to cheer for their favorite team. Ky Miyamoto hurled brilliant ball to lead the Pine Cone to a well-earned victory. Barring the first inning, when he developed a wild streak to walk across the only Plumber run, Ky had the heavy hitting W&J boys eating out of his hand. The tantalizing Miyamoto slants sent 15 hitters back to the bench via the strike-out route and permitted only 4 safe hits, 2 of which were lashed out by Manny Chappell, Plumber catcher. While Ky was holding the leak-stoppers safe, the newsies pushed across another good measure marker in the third frame. Don Edwards provided the big punch for the Coners when he connected with a home run to drive in 3 tallies in the first inning, and he smashed a double to drive in Joe Nicholson with the third inning marker. Bud Rose, Plumber right fielder, turned in the fielding masterpiece of the night when he made a shoestring catch of a difficult foul fly.

Willard Branson handled the pitching chores for Wilder & Jones and turned in a fine performance, eliminating the first inning. Willard issued 2 walks and 2 hits in the fatal first, and this, coupled with a first base miscue, counted for 5 big runs.

Batteries: Pine Cone: Ky Miyamoto and Joe Nicholson; Wilder & Jones: Willard Branson and Manny Chappell. Umpires: George DeAmaral and Newt Goodrich.

PROF. HELM FLUNKS POLICE; LEGION FIRST HALF CHAMPS

Jim Kelsey's American Legion softballers eased through the first half round-robin without drawing a deep breath and not losing a game. The Firemen stood in the Legion's way for 4 innings last Wednesday night, but in the fifth canto the Vets smashed across 4 tallies to ice the contest. Kenny Roberts pitched steady ball for the fire-fighters but hits in the clutch proved to be his undoing. Jim Kelsey, Legion hurler, held the Firemen to one run until the seventh inning when he weakened slightly and gave up 2 markers in the last frame.

The High School Faculty copped second place in the Adult loop by besting the Police, 14 to 8, in last Thursday's tussle. Walt Helm,

Carmel Donates Over $5,000 To Children's Appeal

It was announced today through David Gill by Mayors Fred Godwin of Carmel, Hugh Dormody of Monterey, and William R. La Porte of Pacific Grove, that the United Nations Appeal for Children which was recently sponsored by the mayors' emergency committee had collected a total of $11,805.39 on the Peninsula and that the Carmel contributions had been $5,207.07.

Mr. Gill, Peninsula chairman of the U. N. appeal, was requested by the mayors to express the thanks of the mayors' committee to all who contributed to the success of the campaign both as workers and donators. The mayors felt that the Monterey Peninsula had made a fine showing in the national drive. The committee was especially appreciative of the work of Colonel Largin Glazebrook and Colonel Roy Hillyer who headed the drive in Carmel.

Faculty center fielder, carried the dynamite for the teachers. Walt hit 3 for 4 with one of his blows going for a grand slam homer. Chuck Dawson showed plenty of stuff on the mound and it will take a good team to beat him during the second half. Trenner and Hawkins, two of Monterey's finest, shared the hurling chores for the Police and both were well received by the Faculty.

BOYS' CLUB MIDGETS IN 17TH STRAIGHT VICTORY

With Henry Overin curving them over in big league fashion, the Carmel Boys' Club Midgets racked up their 17th straight victory at the expense of the Monterey Boys' Club last Monday night. Overin limited the Monterey sluggers to 3 hits and allowed 2 runners to cross the plate. Meanwhile Midget hitters pecked away for 5 hits and picked up 4 runs. Boys playing for the Carmel Midgets are: Stewart Emery, Mike Ricketts, Arleigh Jones, Lee Laugenour, Henry Overin, Neils Reimers, Bob Updike, Bob Laugenour, Bill Daniels, Paul Artellan, Ben Artellan, Joe Diekemper, and Jim Thompson.

GIRLS' SOFTBALL TEAM AT ALISAL TONIGHT

Carmel lassies will invade the Alisal diamond tonight to do battle with the strong Alisal girls' team. Alisal visited Carmel two weeks ago and went home with an 11-4 victory over the local favorites. However, with two extra practice sessions to iron out the rough spots, the Carmel femmes are out to even the score with the valley beauties. Jerry Faye will curve them over for the Carmel girls and Carol Petty will handle the catching chores. Dici Douglas, June Updike, Joan Saunders, and Carol Templeman will make up the rest of the infield. The fly-chasing squad will be picked from Sue Smith, Carol Smith, Joe Douglas, Ann Tanous, and Bobby Sapsis. Next week the Carmel girls will journey to Sunnyvale to meet the Beasley Sport Shop girls' team in a preliminary to the Pine Cone-Sunnyvale All-Star game.

MORALS CASE

Six men held on morals charges in Carmel were bound over to the Superior Court Tuesday, after a preliminary hearing before Judge George P. Ross of the Carmel Police Court. Arrested July 16 at a local hotel following complaint by the proprietor, the defendants were released on $1,000 bail each. Date for Superior Court hearings, to be held in Salinas, has not been set.

Defendants named are Richard Price and Terry Eby of Carmel; Wesley Spurry and James Falck of San Francisco; Douglas Andrews, Bashon Island, Washington; and Jack Christensen, Pomona.

Bach Festival Reviews

BY EBEN WHITTLESEY

While offering a program of less popular appeal than the preceding events, the Thursday evening concert of the Bach Festival maintained as high a standard of artistic excellence and worthwhile content as the earlier presentations.

Outstanding performance of the evening was given in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, in D major, which is to modern ears perhaps the most appealing and readily understood of the six great works of Bach which presaged the emergence of the modern symphoiy. Nannette Levi, as violin soloist, maintained the high standard she has set for herself in earlier concerts this year. Her rich, singing tone, easy unostentatious technique, and sureness of attack are a real pleasure. Floyd Stancliff, flutist, showed good technique, but unfortunately his pitch was sharp during parts of the second and third movement.

Ralph Linsley as piano soloist in this work gave a thoroughly satisfying account of himself. He has a fine understanding of Bach and considerable ability as a pianist. His fingering is good and his dynamics well controlled. The blending of the orchestral and piano parts in this work is always fascinating to hear, and the orchestra showed its cohesiveness by the skillful handling of the long diminuendo in the first movement. In the lively third movement the orchestra kept its pace well without losing smoothness, and the blending of the three solo parts was a pleasure to hear. During the second movement the orchestra maintained excellent composure when an electrical disturbance in the auditorium created considerable distraction.

The first work on the program was the Brandenburg Concerto No. 2 in F major with Ervin Mautner, violin, John May, flute, Whitney Tustin, oboe, and Gabriel Bartold, trumpet, and William Harry, cello. The flute and oboe were clear and pleasing, the latter having an unusually lovely quality. Mr. Bartold was at times ahead of the beat, and particularly in the first movement had difficulty controlling his pitch, due, it seems, largely to a split lip from too much work with his difficult instrument. The orchestral balance was well sustained in the second movement, the solo parts clearly defined without any feeling of thinness in the ensemble.

Mr. Mautner created a much more favorable impression than in earlier concerts.

The Concerto in C minor for violin, oboe and strings with Miss Levi and Mr. Tustin afforded a pleasant contrast to the larger orchestral effect of the first work. The strings were playing together extremely well and the music had a flowing quality rather pleasant to the ear after listening to a good deal of the very insistent accent of so many Bach compositions. In the second movement a slow pizzicato in the strings provides a most effective background for the lyric interweaving melody of violin and oboe. The third movement was dominated by the oboe, around which Miss Levi wove a brilliant framework with her excellent violin playing. Unlike many I have heard, this particular oboe in Mr. Tustin's hands produces a mellow tone which is a pleasure to hear in solo parts.

Following the intermission Cornelius Van Vliet, the eminent cellist played the Haydn D major concerto. Mr. Van Vliet had trouble with the tuning of his instrument, which he attributed to Carmel's characteristic summer weather. He also found himself perched with some appearance of insecurity on a very crowded stage.

Mr. Van Vliet, a distinguished figure in the musical world, performed with assurance, brilliance of execution, and at times perhaps too much ostentation. If his style was too colorful, it was probably because of the contrast with the restrained eloquence of the Bach music. The artist had a beautiful pianimisso tone, fine control and finished style. The lilting theme in the gay third movement was especially pleasant, while this difficult movement was very well played. Mr. Van Vliet's reception was so warm that he was recalled

"Nodding Pleasantly To Each Other Every Hour On The Hour . . . ."

Dr. Eric Berne, whose Mind in Action, book of the Month Club hit, is now being translated into several foreign languages, is travelling in the Orient. He writes to The Pine Cone:

Galleface Hotel, Colombo 3, Ceylon, July 14, 1948

Dear Pine Cone:

It is much too hot in the tropics to write letters, so I hope you will pubish this one as a greeting to all my friends whom I am forced to neglect by the sweat of my brow. I arrived in Bombay this morning from Madras, after sleeping for two nights on a bare mattress 24 inches wide, on the train with no drinking water, and the temperature over 90 degrees, all through Hydevabad, with three carloads of soldiers and machine guns guarding us. It might have been a lark except for the Eurasian soldier, his wife, their two unruly children, the bearded Moslem youth who was fasting for Ramadau, and the Hindu professor of philosophy who shared the compartment. Even so, we had a fairly good time, nodding pleasantly to each other every hour on the hour, since none of us spoke each other's language.

I am glad to report that Carmel Beach is even more beautiful than the beautiful beach at Colombo. I heard some interesting gossip about Carmel in Manila and in Singapore but I forget now whom it was about. I did try to write some letters from Bangkok but it was an all day job to post them, so I gave up.

While Carmel is not as picturesque as Sevatow, where lunch cost $1,400,000, it is less provincial than Hong Kong, and I think I talked both a Malayan Crown Prince and a fan tan man from Macao into paying us a visit some time.

This covers the major geographical points of interest. I did not try to entice the tribal chief in the Ceylon jungle into moving to Carmel because I imagine our local supply of betel nut is too limited to keep him happy. In each place I have made it a practice to visit the local mental hospital, and I have seen some surprisingly up to date places where they combine Yoga exercises and Ayurvedic medicine with insulin shock treatment.

My best regards to everyone, and I am looking forward to seeing them on my first visit to the Carmel Post Office.

Eric Berne.

Participation Of Audience Important In Scott Monoplays

A monologue program of unusual entertainment will be presented by Lucian Scott on Sunday afternoon, August 8, at 2:30 at the Golden Bough Playhouse.

A wide variety of costumed characters is presented in a style of performance known as monologue presentation, but Scott's ability to create other people on the stage makes this program an unique one for audience participation. He states that this is a type of entertainment that brings to life the imagination of each member of the audience and that it has been one of the thrilling experiences of performing his monoplays because the audience unconsciously is acting and performing as much as the actor. Every good audience likes to feel that it is a part of a show and certainly this has proven to be one of the biggest assets toward the success of Scott's amusing and entertaining monoplays.

The program is knitted together by incidental music which is commentary in itself on the character to be portrayed. One is never conscious of the performer making quick changes and each character seems like a different actor.

Buttons And Jade In Fascinating Hobby Exhibition

Taking second place in the hobby urges of the United States, preceded only by stamps, and followed by coins, are buttons, and buttons in a variety you have probably never imagined will be yours for the looking if you climb the steps to the Seven Arts Gallery on Lincoln. Sponsored by the Carmel Art Shop, Mrs. F. E. Burden of Carmel is showing her collection of antique buttons, ranging between one hundred and one hundred and fifty years old. Some of the most beautiful buttons are the hand carved pearl buttons from Austria, from Vienna, portentious are the men's waistcoat buttons, and the jewel buttons, and amusing are the pulp, calico, celluloid and picture buttons. The Victorian glass and cranberry glass buttons have aesthetic and historic interest.

An equally fascinating part of the show are the jade ornaments and bottles collected by Mr. and Mrs. Douglas McGregor. You will see fabulous white jade ornaments, tsuba, which are sword hilt guards, hand carved ivory figures known as netsuke, and snuff bottles of jade and amethyst.

August 14, Date For Paganini Quartet Concert

When the Paganini String Quartet plays in Carmel Saturday night, August 14, at the Sunset School Auditorium, they will be greeted by a large audience of music lovers. Their outstanding success here last season and throughout the United States entitles them to the royal welcome they will receive.

Due to insistent demands for this quartet, managers Alice Seckels and Franklin Dixon have arranged for this one concert prior to their European tour. They are now playing a series of concerts in San Francisco and at Mills College.

The distinguished members of this quartet are Henri Temianka, Gustave Rosseels, Robert Courte and Victor Gottlieb.

Each of these artists plays a Stradivarius instrument which belonged at one time to the virtuoso, Paganini, hence the Paganini Quartet.

Reserved seats are now on sale and may be secured also by mail by sending check and a stamped self addressed envelope to either of the Abinante Music Stores in Carmel or Monterey.

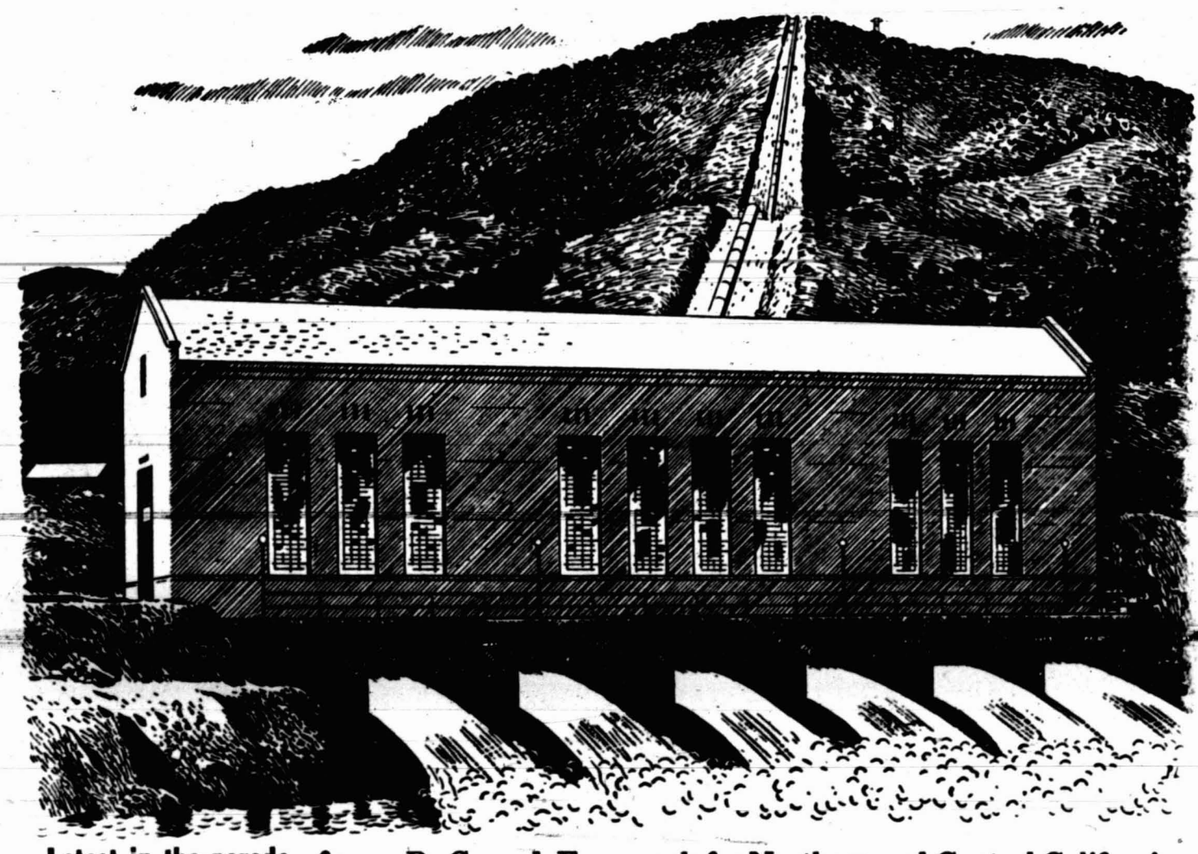
New Electra Powerhouse now pouring power into P. G. and E. lines



Latest in the parade of new P. G. and E. power producers is the Electra plant on the Mokelumne River eight miles from Jackson. New Electra is one of four powerhouses, completed or underway, spaced along the river...powerhouses to take the muscle from the Mokelumne and put it to work for Northern and Central California homes, farms and factories. One Electra unit began pouring power on the line this week and, when at full capacity, Electra will produce 133,000 horsepower. The four Mokelumne plants will turn out a total of 250,000 horsepower.

A pipeful of power . . . the penstock shown here feeds Mokelumne water from the reservoir to the powerhouse under high pressure. There it's jetted from giant nozzles at terrific speed against the water wheels that whirl power-making turbines.

Power enough to serve the cities of Berkeley, Richmond and Emeryville will pour out of New Electra. The entire Mokelumne project will produce nearly twice that much. And this is just part of our program of more power . . . to serve you better.

for the record

New Electra stands near the site of the first plant to serve San Francisco with hydro-power.

P. G. and E. is investing in California at the rate of more than $10,000,000 a month.

The first half-million new horsepower is being added in the next seven months.

Work never stops on our power-building program

ROSICRUCIAN CONVENTION

The human body is a nucleus in the center of a field of radiation which it generates, according to Rosicrucian scientists, who believe they have found a relationship between this field of radiation and the human emotions.

So reports William Geo. Bishop who recently returned from the International Convention of the Rosicrucian Order, AMORC, held at San Jose, July 11-16.

Mr. Bishop found demonstrations given under the direction of Erwin Watermeyer, M. A., F. R. C., staff physicist of the order, particularly interesting. In these demonstrations, vibrations of sound and color and their effects on the human mind, emotions, and the body received special attention. By the use of various instruments, vibratory frequencies were generated to cause both tension and relaxation.

China Convoy . . .

BY L. F. BOSSHARDT
PART V.

We lose the trades the second day out of Wake. The wind is variable and gives every indication that we are in the belt of the monsoon.

At sunset Monday evening, September 2, the sky had an ugly appearance. Lightning flashes on the horizon to the southeast. Winds light and backing into southwest. A study of the barometer at frequent intervals shows no abnormal rise or fall. Sea is flat calm but no large swell. No indication of a typhoon. At night thunder is rumbling in the distance. Wind backs to southeast and increases, sea making up. Probably we are in for some good hard squalls that may be a part of a young typhoon forming in our area. Weather reports from Guam are favorable.

We furl the awnings, put on our port boards and secure our gear about the decks. I don't like this at all. Signal ships of convoy to secure all gear and prepare for a blow.

I hope now that St. Anthony does not break down. At 4:00 a. m. she hit. A squall out of southeast with torrential rain, wind at 75 miles per hour. The lightning display was fascinating. It was as if a giant light had been turned on. No flashes but a continuous sheet of flame. The sea made up almost immediately with green water boarding the vessels. In the glare of the lightning I could see the little vessels rolling their rails under and making poor way. In forty minutes the squall passed. Wind fell to calm, and sea abated. Stars appeared to windward in a blue sky. At daybreak the sky was red behind a bank of ugly clouds. "Red in the morning. A sailor's warning." Nothing came of this, however, so I order all vessels except St. Anthony and El Rey to proceed at full speed to Guam. Decided that El Rey and Pacific Star would tow St. Anthony, who had broken down after the squall had passed. At 1:30 p. m. the Balestrari made her landfall on Roto Island, just north of island of Guam, and in succession, Jackie Boy and Rosanne, later in the day. At 6:55 a. m., Wednesday, September 4, we made landfall on Roto island. El Rey has Jackie Boy in tow. Weather fine. Decide to proceed with Pacific Star into Apra harbor, island of Guam. At 4:00 p. m. entered harbor and tied up to dock assigned to the convoy by the Navy. At 7:00 p. m. El Rey arrived with St. Anthony in tow.

Now there lay 6,500 miles of Pacific ocean behind us. The little fleet, with the exception of St. Anthony, is in good shape, and after taking on fuel, water and stores, I plan to leave.

The usual formalities were dispensed with this evening, and now to snug the ships down and get some much needed rest.

Nothing much to do on this island. However, Balestrari has asked permission to take some Army and Navy people out fishing. Tuna runs here in great abundance, and the shore personnel find their greatest form of recreation in fishing. I gave Balestrari permission to go. If the skipper has not had enough of the sea by now, so be it.

We are informed by the Navy that we cannot get our stores until Tuesday, September 10. This means that I cannot sail until Wednesday. A whole week to spend here! I am uneasy about this, as the typhoon season is at its height. As these storms form below the latitude of Guam at this time of year and none have been reported, I could get the jump on them if I could shove off now. It is not to be, though. The Navy has spoken.

Commencing at noon, Friday the 6th, heavy rain squalls are blowing in over the island. The barometer does not react favorably to the diurnal oscillation, its trend is broken. I know that a tropical disturbance is on the move. This evening at sunset a light cirrus haze covers the sky, with mares' tails laying across the face of the setting sun. This is typhoon.

NODARK

Lilies on the lake
In whiteness float;
Between their clusters
Drifts my boat.
Over the water
Winds a swan,
With cream-like breast
And neck,
She passes the boat,
And then is gone
Into a hedge
Of rushes
At the lake's edge.
The only sounds
Are my own breathing
And the lap of waves;
The day has become
Like love without its wounds.
I wait,
And watch the swan's neck
Undulate
Lilies, swan and I,
Under the tree's low arc,
Are in time, in not time,
In light that is the mind's nodark.

LINES TO A NEIGHBOR VETERAN

For those who look for universals, as some seek anger and some seek pleasure:
your garden wasted while your house you painted and I too wondered, among your neighbors.

The rags upon your clothesline flaunted disdain for virtues that some counted beyond grey paint. But I say, now,
I saw the writing, the inspection that you had to keep.

I should have said how well you painted,
how well grey went with red geraniums.
Like them I was by tall weeds taunted as who seeks anger and therefrom pleasure.

How fine the morning when the task was finished!
I noticed your brushes laid out to dry.
How right the town to post a warning:
NO TRESPASSING, when a man knows when to die.

Your weeds, your rags tonight are banners around a position you shelled, took, painted.
"That grey goes well with red geraniums".

"HAST ANY PHILOSOPHY IN THEE?"
BY EDWARD O. SISSON

(A review of The Inquiring Mind, by Herbert Martin; Hinds and Noble, 1947; pp. 280. $2.75.)

I have been looking for years for a single book to recommend as an "introduction" to philosophy; first for students in regular courses in philosophy, and later, especially in the Carmel Adult School, for persons with "the inquiring mind" who really want to know what philosophy is and what it can contribute. The Inquiring Mind, by Herbert Martin, I think, is the book I have been looking for. It is a guide to the true study of philosophy: it states and briefly describes the great problems of philosophy which have come down through history, in our own Western culture, from the Greeks to our own day. It explains the solutions or answers to these problems that have been offered by the leading minds who have dealt with them. This is what might be called the erudition of the subject, on which much stress is laid in most university courses. That this task is well performed is indicated by the testimony of an eminent professor that the book "will be of peculiar help to students preparing for an examination for the doctor's degree in philosophy, as it presents all the theories and their historical sponsors clearly and succinctly."

But the author does far more than this: as another critic tells us, the author "puts philosophy to work on the human social frontiers . . . reveals his own philosophy which may be called humanistic in the sense that for him the welfare of man is central." Important as is the factual matter—the history, the erudition—which is so competently done in the book, this second quality is quite indispensable, and calls for powers of mind much rarer than the capacity to provide a faithful record of facts. Thus the treatment is itself truly philosophic, and itself leads the reader to think philosophically. He is stimulated and equipped to go on working out his own "philosophy," or to delve into the writings of the great thinkers of history, ancient or modern.

The selection of material is done with a master's eye and hand. The huge content of philosophical thought piled up over the twenty-five centuries of Western culture poses a baffling problem of choosing and rejecting. As I go through the book, chapter by chapter, and then look back over it, I am impressed by the broad grasp and the keen judgment of the writer. Indeed, I know of no other work that has done the job so well. In this sense it is in the highest degree a true introduction to philosophy.

In particular, the perspective of the book is modern. It is not, as so much official philosophy, alas, is, bound to the chariot wheels of the brilliant Greeks, or even to the much-less-brilliant thinkers of the Middle Ages. The author is wide awake to the tremendous movements of the knowledge and thought of our very own day, and the impact of this new knowledge upon philosophy. He is aware of the new physics and the new biology: the very first subject presented is Relativity, followed promptly by Evolution. The whole of Part II, "Man As Agent," is built on the most advanced ground in psychology, logic, and theory of knowledge.

This modern character does not discard anything of the past which can stand the test of time and is still valid; whatever is sound and relevant in Plato and Aristotle is held fast and reckoned with. But we must also reckon with the enormous gains of the ages that have elapsed since these masters. It is clear, for example, that the advance of science, especially biology and physics, within the past century, calls for radical revision in philosophy, a revision which is manifestly going on before our eyes. Martin sets this out plainly and unequivocally in his final chapter, "The Future of Philosophy." He points out

The Time Has Come . .

By Kippy Stuart

Our gardens are beginning to burst into glamorous color. The tuberous begonias are on their way, and where can one find such a pageant of dramatic still life as in a tuberous begonia garden? The varieties of shape and form are legion and the firm colors with nuances of almost all conceivable colors, are there. So, why not have a tuberous begonia garden yourself? It is a fallacious belief that tubers are for the experts alone. Don't you believe it, for few flowers are as easy to grow. All one needs is a few, basic facts to compete with the experts.

Like all growing things, the start must be made in the soil. Pure oak leaf mold with a dash of peat moss is all that is necessary to know about tubers. I won't go into their starting process. It is too late for that angle. Your nurseryman has done all that for you and your only responsibility is to follow a few, simple directions and presto! you have a botanical garden all of your own.

Since tuberous begonias hail from northern South America, we must supply climate and exposure that approximates that region. The Monterey Peninsula has that climate; you can supply the material to complete the picture. You may plant tubers in pots, or you may place them directly in the ground. I find it more fun to place my bulbs in pots and then to sink those pots, ground level, in the flower beds. My reason for this is, that the most appalling color is apt to burst forth from one tiny bulb that may detract from the collection. Removed to a spot by itself this strange color will take on character.

With this pot system one may decorate a living room table, or a patio and one many continue this merry-go-round at will. The thing that counts is how to plant the ready-to-bloom bulbs that are now available at local nurseries. Fill either a hole in the ground, or a flower pot with leaf mold. Into this leaf mold sprinkle a bit of bonemeal. I hear you wail, "I have no bonemeal . . . it is too much trouble to get bonemeal." Okey, proceed without bonemeal and you may have good luck. Many gardeners do. Handle the young plants as you would handle a fledgling humming bird. Place the bulb gently . . . very gently . . . in a small depression in the leaf mold. Scatter a bit of leaf mold around the sides of the tuber. Do not press the bulb down; do not sink the bulb too deep. Give the plant an exposure that is called "shade," but a shade that allows filtered sunshine a few hours a day. If the spot is too gloomy the tuber will sulk; if the spot is too damp, the tuber will sulk itself to death.

If too much sun hits the tuber, it will yellow and shrivel; if the bulb ever gets too dry, both you and the tuber are done for. When once planted in proper soil and in proper exposure, all the tuberous begonia asks is, "Please go away and let me alone. I will carry on from here." Never leave the tuber bed soppy at night. Manage to spray gently in the morning hours. The usual happy medium of moisture that is called "damp," is what they require.

Honest to goodness, this is all you need to know about tuberous begonias to create a display that will knock your eye out, and tubers last and bloom well into the late fall months. There are pages of scare-head directions in the expert's jargon. Any of you who are interested in tuberous begonias as experimental material . . . you go read the experts. This is for the little fellow with a once-a-week garden; the man who enjoys his garden, not the man who is foolish enough to worry over his garden. (That's me.)

that men who are primarily scientists are now inevitably writing philosophy — Driesch, Whitehead, the Haldanes, Mach, Eddington, Jeans, Einstein. We might well add Sherrington, a biologist, and Weyl, a mathematical physicist.

This last chapter, and the first chapter, "Every Man a Philosopher," stand out as Professor Martin's answer to the central question "What Is Philosophy?" Philosophy, he tells us, "is not a foreign importation," but is integral to human life as such. "It is out of and in connection with the business of human living that this thing called philosophy, yes, thought itself, arises." Thinking is "embodied, i.e., it is a form of organic response at a higher level . . . just as assimilation and digestion are organic processes at a lower level." Philosophy is just a still higher level than ordinary everyday thinking, and it is just as "natural" for any man to think philosophically as it is to breathe or walk.

The last chapter is a challenge to philosophers "to descend from their ivory-domed tower, where rare skills in logic-chopping and hair-splitting have yielded mostly pale and bloodless victories . . . to the streets where the bewildered masses assemble and pass, seeking direction, scarce knowing what they seek or whither they tend. This, philosophy must do in order to revitalize itself." It is no wonder that the author here cites John Dewey, "the philosopher of democracy," as exemplifying this new function of philosophy—that its task is to "clarify men's ideas as to the social and moral strifes of their own day." Professor Martin concludes: "In such creative enterprise the future of philosophy will be assured."

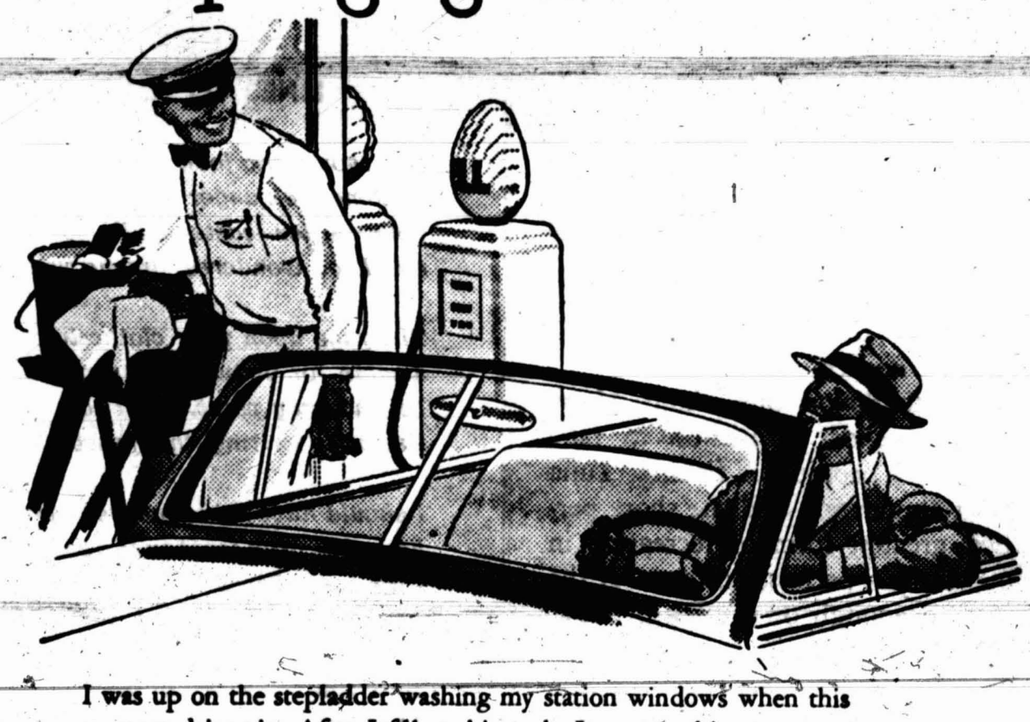
It's Spring again this month



I was up on the stepladder washing my station windows when this stranger drives in. After I fill up his tank, I start washing his windows. Then he begins to kid me.

"Kind of late with your Spring house cleaning, aren't you?" he asks.

"Why, no!" I kid him back. "This is Spring. Every month—every day—is Spring around here when it comes to cleaning up."

So I show him around . . . show him my driveways, my lawn, my grease rack and tools. He even peeks inside the restroom.

"Looks like you're right," he says seriously. "It is Spring. And guess I need some of your Spring service on my car."

I figure I came out pretty well on that one. After all, folks like to take their cars to a clean, orderly place. They know they'll get better service. And service is my business.

Service is my business

New Home

Dr. and Mrs. G. Ridgeley Parker have sold their old home and are all ready to move into their new one by September 1. The new house is going up on the Rancho Rio Vista land, with a fine view of Point Lobos and also of the valley. Dr. Parker will at long last have the sculpture studio he has been looking forward to working in for many years.

Friends And Fishing

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Ricketts and their two children, Patsy and Michael, had a two weeks' vacation in which visiting old friends and doing a great deal of fishing were the dominant notes. They first went to Weaverville and stayed in the Mark Lusiers' cabin on the Trinity River for a week's fishing, then on to Yreka to visit with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Studevant who are old friends and former residents of Carmel. The Scot River provided good fishing from this site. They then made a trek to Bend, Oregon, came home through Mt. Lassen Park, and spent a night at Gold Lake with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Leidig.

Musical House Guests

Staying with Mrs. Grace C. Howden for the week of the Bach Festival were leading tenor Russell Horton and his wife, Mrs. Horton, of Los Angeles. Mrs. Howden entertained the quartet at her home after last Wednesday night's rehearsal, and also entertained the Hortons at dinner at the Holman Ranch preceded by an hour of music in the Ranch salon.

Is your date book open at September and are you busy with a pencil making lists of back-to-school plans? Then you'll want a back-to-school corduroy as a starter from GAIL COUPE'S dress shop on San Carlos, Carmel. Of Merrimac's sheer corduroy, the dresses are gently tailored, have a front pleat for flaring purposes, and are dramatized with gold buttons. You'll step on the campus looking straight out of Junior Bazaar, and ready for all campus cross-questioning, from professors or assembled fraternity brothers. GAIL COUPE also offers you the service of altering, re-styling and mild tailoring, so take in that collected pile of clothes that need redoing. Phone 666-W.

Right in the center of the picket fence on Dolores street is a picket gate opening into the charming PICCADILLY FLOWER SHOP. And the gate is always open, so that you may wander in, let your eyes and nose fill with the color and scent of the beautiful flowers and plants around you, and enjoy yourself in a setting reminiscent of that delightful childhood book, the Enchanted Garden. The always fresh flowers, the arrangement of path, and plants, and shady nooks and sloping roof, do have the enchantment of a fairy tale garden about them. Choose your flowers and plants from the PICCADILLY FLOWER SHOP on Dolores street.

Keep that tan going while you lunch or have afternoon ice cream in the VILLAGE CORNER patio where the sun shines on rustic tables and benches, a brick floor, a redwood picket fence, and flowers and plants blooming around you. You couldn't ask more of your own patio, let alone the buffet counter of the VILLAGE CORNER and the neat location which enables you to corner all village activity. And when you've sucked that last delicious sip of your soda and have rounded the corner to the Post Office, stop in at the VILLAGE CORNER CANDIES for a bagful or boxful of candied delicacies.

Have you ever noticed that the colors of summer, warm reds, cool greens, are just the colors produced by most vegetables and fruits? Look over the fresh range of vegetables and fruits displayed at KIP'S on Ocean Avenue and see the greens of lettuces and celery and carrot leaves and squash and avocados, and the reds and pinks of watermelons, cherries, tomatoes, cabbages, onions and strawberries. Summer vegetables seem to be especially colored for summertime. Make your selection at KIP'S, choose the right colors of vegetables and fruits to enhance the summer look of your dining tables.

We may send a great many things in the way of food and clothes to Europe, but Europe sends things right back to us, as witness the beautiful shipment of costume jewelry which has arrived at the VILLAGE JEWELERS straight from Czechoslovakia. There are pins, earrings, with chokers to match, set with stones in dainty pastel colors, and wonderful large pins accurately resembling old antiques. The VILLAGE JEWELERS also has a fine gold assortment, this being a gold year, of chokers, bracelets, and earrings; and they remind you that they specialize in watch repairing, getting the watch back to you in record time.

If you wanted to wake up in the morning and do a long series of exercises, there would probably be a great deal of health in it for you, and no doubt some slimming effects would result from it too. But who wants to wake up in the morning and do exercises? Most of us prefer to roam about with black coffee in our hands, or to lie in bed and pin down a murder mystery. And why bother about the whole thing when the STAUFFER SYSTEM is waiting for you on Mission and Fifth ready to give you the most easy and slimming exercises in the world, all done by machine, and with no effort on your part except to relax and dream away. And when you rise from your hour's exercise, you have the marvelously exhilarated feeling that you get from a good horseback ride. Let the STAUFFER SYSTEM do your work for you. Phone 2101-W.

When you return home from your trip and tell everyone that you've been to Carmel, the first question they will automatically ask is Did You Go To SADE'S? and you'll want to be able to give an emphatic Yes. After all, it would be rather foolish to go vacationing somewhere and miss out on a famous bistro on a famous Avenue. And SADE'S is just that. It's known by people who fly here from New York, from Europe, from the Orient. The first thing they do after a swift brush-up is to make straight for SADE'S, have one of those first class cocktails and let the knowledge sink in on them that they're back in Carmel, and lounging once again in SADE'S. So find SADE'S yourself, and when your back-home friends ask How Was It? you'll know where they mean, and have an answer all ready.

Upstairs in the Las Tiendas Building are the decorative offices of TOWN AND COUNTRY INTERIORS ready to give you service and tasteful advice from 10:00 o'clock in the morning until 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon Monday through Saturday. A visit to the offices would immediately stimulate you with all kinds of ideas for redecoration, and would give you a fine sample of the taste and skill Mr. Eliot is capable of, and the excellent ideas he might have for your own home or apartments. Step in to TOWN AND COUNTRY INTERIORS and have a chat with Mr. Eliot about your color and drapery and furniture problems.

Something new has been added to the Monterey Peninsula, or maybe it would be better to say that some of the old atmosphere has returned. We refer to the PEASE PRESCRIPTION PHARMACY at Hartnell and Cass streets in Monterey, just one block from the Post Office. Niles Pease, who was in the drug business in Pacific Grove for the past 16 years, has installed a PRESCRIPTION PHARMACY that has all the atmosphere of an old world apothecary shop, even including the colored show globes in the window.

No marbles, no marmalade, no mousetraps, no mop handles are offered for sale. Instead, he will have one of the most modern and complete PRESCRIPTION PHARMACIES on the Monterey Peninsula. Household drug needs, first aid supplies, and sick room needs will be the only other items featured. It is a drug store that really looks like a drug store, with every facility for filling your prescriptions. Stop in and have Mr. Pease show you around his new prescription pharmacy.

Something to please all Carmelites will be the handmade wooden Dutch shoes at the GARDEN SHOP on San Carlos. The small wooden shoes can be worn by children or used as planters for ivy and flowers; the large ladies' shoes, in sizes from four to nine, can be worn by those who would like to garden in something unique. The shoes can be painted in bright colors or with some amusing design and used as a decorative note by a fireplace or in a patio. Mr. Wright also wishes to let all of you who have been patiently waiting for smocks know that they will be in soon and he is sorry you have had to wait for so long. Look for the green barrel on San Carlos which says GARDEN SHOP.

A large store-wide mid-summer sale is being held at the CARMEL KIDDIE SHOP on Ocean Avenue where you will find everything imaginable for children and infants at drastically reduced prices. HOW TO SET UP HOUSEKEEPING ..telephone style

1. Building a home for telephone equipment is a big and complex job. The framework must be extra massive to carry heavy loads and resist shock. To make room for equipment, the stories are taller, too. This new building, larger than most but of typical construction, has fifteen floors...yet it's as high as a twenty-story building.

2. The "furniture" for our telephone home is the equipment needed to handle your calls. Manufacturing and installing it takes time...and lots of money. Your new telephones can't get to work without it, so we're putting in equipment, constructing buildings, and providing other facilities to the tune of over half a million dollars a day.

3. A lot of close, exacting work is still ahead. Thousands of tiny connections must feel the heat of a soldering iron before new equipment can handle your calls. Scenes like this are common in telephone offices all over the Coast today as we build and expand—in the face of high costs—to meet the West's growing needs.

4. Where does the money come from? Millions of new working dollars...needed to extend and improve service...must come, not from telephone bills, but from thousands of people who put their savings to work in the telephone business. To attract these working dollars, we must pay a reasonable amount for their use. This depends on the sale of our services at fair and adequate prices.

aggressive tones. Go into the FLOR DE MONTEREY on Franklin street and survey the assembled collection of August flowers, the zinnias, and the dahlias, and the gladiolus, all brightly colored flowers with a strong sense of being alive about them. You will want to keep up with the summer sun and fill your patios and hallways and rooms with all the gorgeous colors of August sun flowers. So go into the FLOR DE MONTEREY and make your August selection.

There's still a great sale going on at MAXINE'S DRESS SHOP on Dolores street, with racks filled with all kinds of summer wear, fall wear, at one third and even one half reduction. We can tell you all about it, but it's even more fun to go in and see for yourself. Anyway, you'll find cottons, prints, lots of fresh white dresses, wool skirts, dusters, silk prints, gabardines, and two piece dresses, and some nice black crepes for all fall parties. The choice will make you gasp, and you'll thank your shopping star that you obeyed your female intuition and took advantage of MAXINE'S sale.

All you patient waiting people will be glad to know that the VILLAGE JEWELERS have at last received the souvenirs of Carmel spoons that they have had especially made and designed for Carmel inhabitants. The sterling silver spoons carry the scene of a cypress tree with Carmel-by-the-Sea engraved on them, and all of you who for so long have been waiting to have your orders filled on these spoons can now go in to the VILLAGE JEWELERS and collect them. Nothing would make a nicer combination to your silver collection than these spoons, and they would be fine gifts for sending away.

Gleaming and dramatic is the imported English brass being shown at TWIGS OF CARMEL in the Golden Bough Court just off Ocean Avenue. The brass is lacquered so that no polish is required, and it always maintains a high golden glow. It is formed into round plaques, small, medium, and large, with fine old sailing ships to decorate your walls, into pitchers large and small, glowing with English characters looking straight out of Dickens, and into a medium sized chest which would be fine near the fireplace filled with small kindling, or would be beautiful in a country bedroom, filled, say, with the fine assortment of silken scarves you have collected.

Always striving to please you with invention and fantasy is the SEA ECHO BOOK SHOP on Ocean Avenue in the Golden Bough Court. This week they offer for interested shoppers linen table mats and towels with Carmel designs, Character dolls made by a Carmelite, new children's books for the very young, and hand painted stationery with Carmel designs. A great many of these things will especially please those traveling through Carmel, who will want to send some specific and tasteful memento of their stay in our charming village. Be sure to stop in at the SEA ECHO BOOK SHOP and send home a remembrance of your visit.

Enthusiastic and enterprising is Dudley Yard of the HIGHLANDS INN, who believes that Carmel should not be known as a summer resort alone, but should have its famous aesthetic reputation accepted as an all-year-round-event. After all, our winters are equally as enjoyable as our summers, and there's no reason why tourists shouldn't have just as much fun here in the wintertime. I myself will be glad to vouch for a four year running tan in the fine months of December, January and February. If you're having a fine time now at the HIGHLANDS INN, come back again a few months later and repeat the pleasure of fine food, fine view, and the perfect compromise combination of not too warm, not too cool weather.

All of you who like to get in your car, drive somewhere and end up at a spectacularly beautiful place for a fine dinner will want to mark down the CARMEL VALLEY INN as a perfect place for your journey's end. The Inn is now featuring a buffet Sunday dinner by its gleaming green pool from 6:30 to 8:00, and as it is always warm in the valley, you can be sure of warm sun shadows lingering in the patio as you dine. Cruise through the valley with your top down, see a lot of fine scenery and get a good tan, and end up at the CARMEL VALLEY INN for a buffet dinner in the open air.

Along with all the other fine things destroyed by the war was needle-point lace which is back with us again at the JEAN RITCHIE YARN shop on Dolores and Seventh streets. Imported from Austria and France, the needle-point has been received in grospoint, petitpoint, and traume, in lovely pastel colors, blends of rose and pink and lavender, in exquisite floral patterns, and some with a delicate figure design. All of you who are interested in the fine art of needle-point, will want to go into the JEAN RITCHIE YARN shop and view these beautiful imports.

Gourmet's paradise is the corner of Dolores and Eighth streets where a whole corner is devoted to the selling of fine wines, canned goods, meat, and fresh fruits and vegetables. The corner is known as the CARMEL DRIVE IN and is divided into departments of the CARMEL DRIVE IN BEVERAGE SHOP, run by Mr. Tomasini, the CARMEL DRIVE IN GROCERY AND PRODUCE DEPARTMENTS, run by Mr. Kastros, and the CARMEL DRIVE IN MEAT DEPARTMENT, run by Mr. Turney. Drive in to the corner, park your car in the large area reserved for your parking convenience, and shop for your daily or weekly menus with everything that you could possibly need right at hand; with each department a few steps from the other. The corner is really a shopper's paradise, and you will be delighted with the convenience of buying everything all at once in one place.

Manned by four charming hostesses, the PARK DRIVE IN on the Fremont Extension at Lopez, is the perfect place to drive in, park, and order a Dreamburger straight from hamburger heaven. Closed on Mondays, the PARK DRIVE IN offers you swift car service all the other days of the week, serving you from 11:30 a. m. until midnight, and from 11:30 a. m. until 1:00 a. m. on Fridays and Saturdays. There is also a little patio with flowers and shrubs where tired tourists can stretch out and enjoy a rest in the sun. Use your brake in front of the PARK DRIVE IN and come to a swift stop for swift service with a Dreamburger.

If you have a Peter Whiffle complex and would rather have the illusion of travel than travel itself, or if you feel more closely related to Marco Polo with the itch to be on the move making you restless every second, you will enjoy the vacation and travel books now being featured at the VILLAGE BOOK SHOP on Ocean Avenue. Curl up in your patio or on a windless sand dune with several of these books and enjoy the pictures and stories of foreign places, exciting exotic names, and fine tales of adventure. The VILLAGE BOOK SHOP invites you to look at these books and select the ones which will most fascinate you.

for two encores, the sarabande and gavotte from the Bach cello concerto. Encores at a Bach Festival are only permitted on rare occasions.

We who have heard and worked with Gaston Usigli for several years cannot forget that credit belongs above all to him for the sustained excellence of this year's Festival. He has achieved a musical tour de force in training a largely amateur chorus and an orchestra assembled from all over the state to a high point of excellence, and by his insight as an interpreter of Bach. We are also a little apt to take for granted the unobtrusive but very efficient management of Dene Denny and Hazel Watrous.

ORGAN RECITAL

Ludwig Altman's second organ recital on Friday afternoon at All Saints' Episcopal Church was as fine as his earlier performance, and perhaps more colorful in its musical content. He opened with four works by Dietrich Buxtehude, an early composer who is said to have had a strong influence on Bach. The prelude and fugue in G sharp minor has a colorful opening, considerable dynamic reach, and a charming melody. The artist's execution was very clear, and his dramatic emphasis quite powerful.

Two chorale preludes, Praise God, and O World, I Must Leave Thee, were notable for simple, peaceful themes, somber coloring of tone and a delicate pianissimo. A fantasy on How Beautiful Shineth the Morning Star, was played with a mellow tone, very skillful runs, growing into a climax of joyous power.

Turning to the music of Bach, the artist opened with the organ concerto in A minor. Powerful passages were well controlled, with expressive dynamics which avoided too heavy contrasts. The second movement was particularly effective with its slow, deep bass forming a warm background for the light melody in the treble. The complex third movement lost no clarity in the hands of this excellent musician. This was followed by the chorale prelude Come Now, Saviour of the Heathen, and the Prelude and Fugue in C Minor, Bach's last work of this type. This involved work was played with effective understanding of its complex structural patterns.

The program ended with Bach's musical last testament, Before Thy Throne I Now Stand. Dictated from his death bed, it is a very moving and dignified declaration of profound faith and humility. Mr. Altman conveyed splendidly the composer's genuine humility, which seemed not to lose sight of the knowledge of his great achievement.

SATURDAY'S CONCERT
By Camille Olaeta

Saturday night's concert was stupendous. The opening Bach Overture No. 3 started the program gloriously and on a high plane full of verve and joy supreme. The audience was treated to a dividend in a repeat performance of the beautiful third and fourth movements of the fourth Brandenburg that was first played on Monday night. The music was superbly done. The andante is soulful and eloquent beyond words and the presto rises to an almost unbearable pitch.

The triple piano concerto in F major was exquisitely played. The piece is full of the charm that is so uniquely Mozart's own. In the strictest sense, however, it seems really to be a double concerto. Mr. Schapiro handled the first piano with a maximum of finesse and flourish and musicianship, and Mr. Linsley's second was a marvel of synchronization and effectiveness in stating all the replies to the first piano's poseurs. Mr. Fulkerson at the third piano unfortunately had very little to do. Few listeners realize the very great margin for error when three pianos are playing at once. Incautious use of the damper or any small spot of muddy fingering on the part of any one of them mars the total effect, often beyond repair. It was most satisfying to hear the gemlike beauty of the Mozart without a blur. The program closed with Phoebus and Pan, a Dramma per Musica, with six principals. Ralph Isbell, bass, sang with rollicking enjoyment. Phyllis Moffet, soprano, has a voice of infinite beauty and power with a tonal color and mellowness that is more often associated with contralto singing. She sings movingly and quite on pitch and is altogether delightful to both ear and eye.

B MINOR MASS

Sunday night's performance of the Bach B minor Mass, though not totally inspired, afforded some high moments. The Et Incarnatus Est chorus was full of wondrous effects and fine shading and the Gloria resounded with elation. Once again the gorgeous quality of Phyllis Moffet's voice was heard but always in company with some one else. I should prefer hearing her alone but that would entail rewriting the mass. Russel Horton's Benedictus was outstanding as was Mr. Isbell's first solo Quoniam tu solus sanctus. Janice Moudry was heard in the poignant Agnus Dei, one of the most emotionally revealing and exacting of all contralto arias.

The B minor Mass is a high musical experience. It is taxing beyond belief to play or to sing. Two performances on the same day must leave all who participate in it at the point of exhaustion. It is asking too much that they "burn ever with a gem-like flame" for that many hours out of the twenty-four. This monumental piece of music is, however, a most fitting thing with which to close a week of such high quality workmanship.

Gastone Usigli remains to the reviewer the man of the week and the star of his own Festival. The entire community is beholden to him.

Photographic Tour

C. Edward Graves is spending the summer on a photographic tour making the kodachrome colored slides for which he is so well known in Carmel. Mr. Graves spent most of July in Yellowstone, and will then go on to Glacier Park. He hopes to stop at Mt. Ranier on his way home, and should be back in Carmel by the first of September.

Off To Gift Show

Mr. and Mrs. Jess W. Black are off to San Francisco for a week to visit the Gift Show being held at the Civic Auditorium. Their daughter, Diane Black, is home with them now after graduating from the Wisconsin School for the Visually Handicapped. Miss Black will enter Monterey College in the fall and will train her splendid singing voice by majoring in music.

Home At Last

Dr. and Mrs. Russell Williams have been home two weeks after their year and a half exile in Topeka, Kansas, where Dr. Williams was on the staff of the Winter Veterans Administration Hospital. With them in their Highlands home are their four children, Margaret, two, John, seven, Richard, ten, and Marian, 12. Dr. Williams is resuming his practice in Monterey, and Mrs. Williams says that they prefer California to Kansas and hope never to leave home again.

"Love" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Christian Science churches on Sunday, August 1, with the Golden Text from I John: "We have known and believed the love that God hath to us. God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him" (4:16).

Included in the sermon are the following citations:

Psalms: "Oh that men would praise the Lord for his goodness, and for his wonderful works to the children of men! He turneth the wilderness into a standing water, and dry ground into watersprings. And there he maketh the hungry to dwell, that they may prepare a city for habitation" (107:31, 35, 36).

"Vices Are Expensive," Woman Judge Says

with 516 reconciliations affecting 1,362 children. This comes to about 36 per cent.

"In offering its services in divorce cases involving children, the policy of the court is one of 'friendly intervention.' We try to work through conference and cooperation, rather than by legal procedure," the judge added. "If we fail to effect a reconciliation, then the court attempts to induce the parties to work out their separation problems in a way that will be to the best interests of the children. Long and possibly scandalous divorce contests are especially avoided. If a divorce seems inevitable, a settlement often is advised. Even when the marriage cannot be saved, we can in many cases give constructive help to the individual parties concerned."

Judge Bullock's first public office was Deputy District Attorney, Los Angeles, an appointment she received in 1917. During the next 14 years she was Probate Court Appraiser, Judge and Justice of the Peace of the City of Los Angeles, and Judge of the Municipal Court.

"My accession to the Superior Court bench in 1931 was the result of a kind of dare," she said. "I was talking to a Los Angeles city editor one day, and the conversation turned to women in the courts. He said that a woman was incapable of presiding over Superior Court, and that she couldn't get the position anyway. That made me mad. Later the same year I was appointed to fill an unexpired term."

Elected to the post in 1932, she has since been re-elected twice. In 1938, she received 440,000 votes, a plurality of 293,482 over her opponent, and in the 1944 election hers was the highest vote on the entire ballot.

Mrs. Bullock was born Georgia Morgan, in Chicago. Educated in public and private schools in Illinois, Indiana, and Swansea, South Wales, she holds a Master of Business Administration from Isaac Woodbury College, Los Angeles, an LL. B. from UCLA, and an LL. D. from Southwestern University. Eleven years of private law practice in Los Angeles preceded her municipal and county offices.

STORK RACE

Carmel Fire Department members manning the Red Cross ambulance breathed a sigh of relief as they drove through the exit gate of the Peninsula Community Hospital Saturday evening. Responding to a call from Herbert Graham of Eleventh and Mission at 6:45 p. m., the crew rushed Mrs. Graham up the hill over the smoothest streets available, their fingers crossed all the way. The new member of the Graham family was born five minutes after their arrival.

SALINAS HIGHWAY FIRE

Fire of undetermined origin burned over 35 acres of grass and brush last weekend on the T. A. Work property, Salinas Highway, and kept crews from four fire stations busy for 26 hours. Men and equipment from the Carmel Hill Station, under Assistant State Forest Ranger Harry McAuley, were called to the scene at 2:00 p. m. Friday, after the blaze was sighted from the Sid Ormsbee lookout in Carmel Valley. Calls for help brought crews from Tularcitos, Gonzales, and Fort Ord, who were on the scene until 4:00 p. m. Saturday.

With a Touch of Paris

Serving Aristocratic Food in a Smart Contemporary Setting

The pleasure derived from dining at the Cafe Casa Blanca is attributable to a combination of factors, primarily the superb flavor and tenderness of prime or choice grain-fed beef, milk fed chickens, lobster flown in alive from the State of Maine by Air Express and then broiled in a special broiler in our modern kitchen. An interesting old English method of preparing the prime rib of beef roasts, on the Thursday menu, is followed with assurance that the prime ribs always become roasted completely coincident with the retention of the rich, savory juices which contribute so immeasurably to the matchless Casa Blanca flavor.

Our onion soup has been prepared from a recipe from L'Escargo on Rue Montorgueil near Les Halles-Paris' 12th Century Markets. This truly fine restaurant was administered, during our last stay in Paris, by M. Lespinasse, once chef to Baron G. de Rothschild, and the King of Egypt. Great men of all nations beat a pathway to its doorway, and onion soup is something to mention in low, respectful tones. And so— Bon Chance, Mes Amis!

The Cafe Casa Blanca is, as the Maitre D'Hotel describes it, "Bourgeois." This Bourgeois restaurant offers you aristocratic food. But what is a Bourgeois restaurant? It is an eating place where peoples faces frankly betray an unjaded palate, where they don't tell you, "Sorry, the room is taken by a private party" if you don't happen to be the Duke of Norfolk or Mrs. Astor's Horse, a place which, because it is in constant use, is not painfully tidy, an establishment which doesn't force you to rob a bank or take a mortgage on your house in order to afford its fare. It's where they satisfy you.
